Annie L. Weller Dies, Taught Here 37 Years

Miss Annie L. Weller, 88, head of the geography department for 37 years, died in Charleston Community Hospital at 5:15 a.m. Saturday.

The family of Miss Weller plans to establish a memorial award in her name in the Eastern Illinois University Foundation. Contributions for this award may be made to the Foundation in lieu of flowers.

Miss Weller, a graduate of the University of Chicago, joined the Eastern faculty in 1903, after teaching mathematics for five years at the Female Academy in Jacksonville. She retired in 1940.

In 1958 Weller Hall, women's residence hall, was named in honor of Miss Weller.

In an address at the ceremonies dedicating the building, Hobart F. Heller, vice-president for instruction, said:

"Annie Weller—the words 'animated' and 'radiant' belong to her. She succeeded the great John Paul Goode as head of the department of geography. She retired in 1940. Hundreds of alumni would testify, I am sure, that the words 'beloved teacher' describe her without exaggeration."

Miss Weller reached her eighty-eighth birthday the day before her death. She was born August 3, 1874, in New York.

Memorial services for Miss Weller were conducted yesterday afternoon in Booth Library Lecture Room.

Paintings Selected For Ill. State Fair

Paintings by four students and an art instructor at Eastern have been selected for the Old Northwest Territory show August 10-19 at the Illinois State Fair.

Selections for the show were made from entries submitted by professional artists representing seven states—Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Among the selections made for the show was "Little Indian Chief," a painting by Carl Shull, professor of art.

Eastern students to be represented in the show are Ralph Guy, senior from Mattoon, "Abstract No. 1"; Norma Johnson, senior from Charleston, "Cathedral Towne"; Joe Weber, junior from Teutopolis, "Abstract 35"; and Carolyn Weiss, senior from Mattoon, "City of Reflection." All are art majors.

Selecting works for the Old Northwest Territory show were F. Louis Hoover, art chairman, Illinois State Normal University; James Watrous, art department, University of Wisconsin; and George Kichinko, art director, Springfield Art Association.

An exhibition of casein paintings by Shull is on display in the west foyer of the Fine Arts Center. These paintings were selected from various experiments by Shull in this medium and are entitled "Exploration in Casein."

Medical Insurance Fees Increased

Cost of student medical insurance will be increased next year.

Cost of the major medical coverage for accidents and sickness, which is made available to all Eastern students, will be increased from $5 to $5.50 per quarter of coverage for the individual student during the academic year and from $5 to $5.75 for the summer quarter.

Coverage for a husband or wife will be increased from $5.20 during the academic year to $5.70, while coverage for husband and wife and dependent children will be increased from $9.10 to $10.

Students who can produce evidence of equal or better coverage may make application with the director of financial aids for a refund of the insurance fee.

Among the coverage provided by the insurance are the following: A. 100 per cent of the first $500 of reasonable expense for hospital board and room, including x-rays, anaesthetics, use of operating room, blood transfusions, blood

ISSC Awards Qualifications Told By Lyman

Effective winter quarter, the upper-class Illinois State Scholarship Commission awards will be given to students completing one year at Eastern, but no more than three, according to Ross Lyman, director of financial aids.

Students also must be a resident of Illinois, as determined by the residency of his parents at the time of awarding of the scholarship. Also recipients must be full-time students and must complete award applications, according to Lyman. Forms are available in Lyman's office.

Lyman said that applications must be completed and in the office of financial aids no later than September 10.

He also said students must substantiate financial need as determined by the Commission.

He said the award covers full fees for three quarters.

Lawmakers Grant Illegal Scholarships

A United Press International dispatch July 27 said that at least 16 students are attending four Illinois Universities under illegal scholarships granted by legislators, according to Frederick H. McKelvey, executive officer of the Teachers College Board.

McKelvey said that checks of the four universities supervised by the board turned up cases where 13 legislators granted scholarships to 16 students in violation of a state scholarship law.

The Teachers College Board supervises Eastern, Western Illinois University, Northern Illinois University and Illinois State Normal University.

The students were allowed to stay in school since they were already attending when the mistakes were discovered last November, said McKelvey. He said steps have been taken to prevent similar occurrences in the future.

Under state law each legislator may grant two four-year scholarships a year to freshman—one at the University of Illinois and one at one of the other five state universities.

Sen. Russell Arrington, (R-Evanston), chairman of the Legislative Audit Commission, charged at a commission meeting recently that many legislators were deliberately abusing the law since no central house existed to make Renewed Nuclear Testing . . .

Creates Vicious Cycle

We deplore the resumption of nuclear testing by the U.S.S.R. The Soviets exploded a nuclear weapon in the atmosphere Sunday that has been estimated by some scientists to be in the 40-megaton range. The explosion is apparently the second largest nuclear test in history—outdone only by the Soviet blast last fall, which was estimated to be in the 50-megaton range.

Seismological recordings in the United States indicate that the explosion took place at a high altitude over the Soviet atomic testing ground on the island of Novaya Zemlya, in Siberia.

The Soviet nuclear blast appeared to have kicked off a new round of Soviet military maneuvers in the far north, partly for the purpose of testing new nuclear weapons. The Soviet government announced two weeks before the test that land, sea and air maneuvers would begin last Sunday.

The State Department in Washington deplored the resumption of nuclear testing as a "somber episode" and in Japan a government spokesman said the testing "is regrettable for world peace." The explosion took place on the seventeenth anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

The test came as no surprise since Premier Khrushchev previously threatened to resume testing in retaliation for United States testing. It should be noted that the Soviets broke the nuclear test moratorium (which had been in effect since October, 1958) with a nuclear test series last fall, which was climaxed by the explosion of the Soviet super 50-megaton bomb.

Testing by either East or West, not only poisons the atmosphere and creates international tensions, but leads to a vicious cycle of testing (based, partly at least, on retaliation) by both camps. We hope that the United States shows greater maturity in its international relations than the Soviets by not resuming tests merely as a retaliation to Soviet testing or in an attempt to be the last to test.

The Soviet action also further dims the chances of obtaining any kind of nuclear test ban agreement or general disarmament agreement at the 17-nation disarmament conference now meeting at Geneva, Switzerland.

The U.S.S.R. should be admonished by world public opinion for its apparent unconcern, in this instance, with international understanding and goodwill.

Viewing The Scene

by Joe Bangiolo

A college education — is it a search for practical answers, or a search for significant questions? Indeed, are there truly any practical answers or significant questions? Perhaps education and knowledge supply the practicality. Experience and wisdom provide the answers and the significance.

Tomorrow marks Summer Commencement 1962. An event of the obscure future just a minute ago. Then, briefly, just briefly, a moment of the present, the commencement passes into the oblivious past, quietly, "not with a bang, but with a whimper"—the cycle is completed.

During such events, one may in a spurious, empathetic fantasy contemplate the passing minutes—each member of the faculty and some of the audience has had a moment not too unlike this one.

In moments such as these — busy, hurried moments—transpire the most important events of life.

Irony coincident: most of the memory-worthy times of life are spent in such fluster that we scarcely enjoy them at all.

Commencement — a right earned; or a rite performed. Traditions sometimes fail to mellow (or they over-mellow), becoming hollow, rather than hallowed.

Some modern critics (remember the high honors graduate of the University of Illinois of a few years ago?) refer to the exercises as "silly!"

Irony and paradox — a "silly" event, graduation! Silly and shallow, perhaps; yet as in many emotional events, there is a personal nobleness and transcendent importance. Only years later, (a few of those future minutes) may the full substance of the events be realized by the person most concerned—the graduate.

Doxology Question Discussed By Three University Officials

The question of singing the doxology in several University residence halls is the subject of comment by three University officials. In an interview with a News reporter the officials commented on the question as posed in a letter-to-the-editor July 18.

The letter said the practice is unconstitutional as a result of a June 25 United States Supreme Court decision which ruled that the use by the State of New York of its public school system to encourage recitation of a prayer composed and recommended by the state Board of Regents violated the United States Constitution.

President Quincy Doudna

said "I would have to read the decision very carefully to say whether it covers the situation. Judging from newspaper accounts I feel this would not apply in this situation."

Doudna said that "if you go all the way with this" such things as baccalaureate, saying of prayer in the United States Senate or the motto "In God We Trust" on coins might be unconstitutional.

Doudna said the question may become an "academic" one since University food services are being changed over to cafeteria-style, where students would be eating at different times.

When asked what his attitude would be if a majority of the students in a residence hall were against singing the doxology, Doudna said "I don't know" and added that he would have to cross that bridge when he came to it. He added "I'm not inclined to compel anyone to pray, or sing for that matter."

Rudolph D. Anfinson, dean of student personnel services, said "I am a strong believer in freedom of religion." He added "I believe in recognizing individual religious differences."

"If the majority of residents themselves feel that the doxology should be eliminated," Anfinson said, "I have no strong feeling against making a change."

Referring to the present situation, he said "As far as I am concerned a student doesn't have to sing it if he doesn't want to."

He added that the practice of singing the doxology or saying some kind of a prayer is a traditional one at Eastern.

Donald A. Kluge, dean of men, said "This is the first complaint we've had since I've been here. If it's legally wrong we're not aware of it." He added "A student has a choice to participate or not participate in prayer."

When asked what his attitude would be if a majority of the students in a residence hall were against singing the doxology, Kluge said "For any change in rules and regulations in the halls we always consult the two executive councils."

Illegal Scholarships

sure that legislators did not grant more scholarships than authorized.

McKelvey agreed that such a clearing house was needed.

The Teachers College Board had no idea whether Southern Illinois University has also given scholarships duplicating those given at the four universities it supervises, said McKelvey.

He declined to identify the legislators involved. He said 11 legislators granted two scholarships at the colleges, another granted three and another four.

Our Readers Speak

To the editor of the News:

I think that Mr. Bangiolo has taken his own step into oblivion since he has entered an area about which he apparently knows nothing. It is particularly displeasing to find an article criticizing modern art written by a college student . . . especially a college student who is neither an art major nor a qualified art critic. Therefore, the article which appeared two weeks ago was definitely out-of-bounds for him.

It is about time someone set this reporter straight on a few things. He should: 1. stick to his own field of endeavor and harrass his own superiors with his play on words; 2. become a Roman orator and spout off his fluency(?) of the Latin language to the graves of dead Romans; 3. perhaps take a course in art appreciation.

I have no sympathy for Mr. Bangiolo's lack of knowledge about modern art; I only wish he would discuss subjects which he understands and knows something about.
